NEW PUBLICATIONS.

PERIODICALS. The anthor of the new novel, " Hero," which is to appear in Hours at Home, is not Mrs. Dinah Muloch Craik, but Miss Georgiana M. Craik, author of "Mildred," " Winifred's Wooing," &c.

A recent number of The American Scotsman centains portraits and biographics of those accomplished journalists, John and William Swinton, formerly of The New York Times. The Scotsman is a new semi-mouthly periodical edited and published in this city by Mr. John Stewart. It is an attractive sheet, and bears evidence of ability.

The American Journal of Science and Arts for November, makes its appearance later than usual in consequence of a fire in the printing-office which destroyed the type after about half the number was set. The prin cipal article is a valuable paper of " Historical and Geographical Notes on the earliest Discoveries in America, prepared by Mr. Henry Stevens, and accompanied by four large fac similes of rare and interesting maps. Mr. Stevens remarks that great confusion has been produced in the early history, geography, and chronology of the new continent by the entanglement in the earliest charts of the North-East coast lines of Asia and North America, and in the present paper he gives the result of his efforts to do something toward clearing up the confusion by a study of original authorities. The paper was written in the interests of the Tehnantepec Rallway Company; nevertheless it has an independent scientific value, although Mr. Stevens is far from supposing that he has removed all the difficulties and contradictions which he has attacked. 'The Journal also contains a summary of Prof. C. A. Young's spectroscopic observations during the solar eclipse, a description of a new and gigantic fossil serpent found in the cocene greensand near Shark River, Monmouth County, New-Jersey, a summary of results of a late geological reconnoissance of Louisiana, &c., &c.

Mr. W. T. Clarke retires this week from the editorship of The Liberal Christian. His valedictory is a curious and suggestive production. "It is proper for me to say," he remarks, " that I have endeavored to conduct The Liberal Christian in accordance with the principles and in the interests of Liberal Christianity; doing what I could to preserve the intellectual breadth and spiritual catholicity of the Unitarian denomination. to promote good feeling and active cooperation among its members, and to increase its unity, strength and influence. I have striven to know no parties in it, to re move all unnecessary lines of division and causes of irritation, and to bring all Liberal Christians together in practical fellowship and the unity of the spirit. However unsuccessful I may have been, and whatever mistakes I may have made, I have done my best to make a truly liberal and a positively Christian journal. This policy is not entirely satisfactory to the proprietors, who wish to give the paper a more conservative theological character, and make it a more strictly denominational organ than I have done." Mr. Clarke has won the respect of the profession by his courtesy and ability; and we trust that his talent as a journalist will soon be employed for the benefit of some periodical where the expression of his principles will be attended to with less embarrass

The Church Monthly, a vigorous organ of the Catholic party in the Protestant Episcopal Church, contains in its December number, besides controversial and literary matters, two trenchant articles on popular abuses in the manner of conducting religious services, which we trust may be widely read. One denounces the practice of " viewing the remains" at funerals in church, and the other attacks the prevalent style of church music and the "notices" of it which appear in certain of the daily and weekly newspapers, especially at Christmas time. Most of our readers are probably familiar with eriticisms like the following:

CHURCH NO. V.

The music of this church has always attracted a large share of public attention. The compositions throughout the day were, of course, from the pen of the organist. He bids fair to rank high as a church writer. Each stogar sustained his or her role admirably. Mr. Boancages has a voice of heavy timbre. Upon the whole, the music yesterday was light, startling, and, consequently, church-like. CHURCH NO VI.

The splendid "quartetle" connected with this church produced a profound sensation on Christmas Day. The rode could not have been better sustained. The organist, Mr. Cremona (the author of "Jemima Twitchell" and other popular ballads), composed all the music for the day. He is undoubtedly the best church composer now living. He is no servile imitator of Handel or Mendelssohn, but has a style of his own, and that is saying enough. Taken as a whole, the music yesterday was novel, lively, and devotional.

The Overland Monthly for December is better, we think, than any of its predecessors, and certainly has one or two articles which have not often been surpassed in our Eastern magazines. Such an article for instance is Mr. Fr. Bret Harte's "Idyl of Red Gulch," a charming and artistic little sketch in a style by which Mr. Harte is winning an enviable reputation. The "Legend of San Then do los Lagos" is an ingenious story, well told by Louise M. Palmer. "In Lava Land," by Agnes M. Maning, is devoted to the Sandwich Islands. "In and Around Astoria," by Captain C. M. Scammon, describes a region of whose present condition we Yankees know very little. "Quicksilver and its Home," by J. T. Meagher, is a clearly written account of the New Almaden mines. A lady clerk in Washington narrates eleverly enough her experiences "Down Among the Dead Letters." H. D. Jenkins tells some good stories of "Those Americans" who travel in Europe. There are two papers on China, one of travel and adventure, the mesing the Burlingame mission, which the writer believes to be intended merely to put off the inevitable day when Chips must be opened to the world. A story of Dutch peasant life, several miscellaneous articles, and three pieces of poetry complete the number. The most noticeable-we do not say the best-of the poems is one in which a California girl whose father, having ' made his pile," has taken her into fashionable society in New-York, is supposed to write to her old lover at Pov erty Flat. The suddenness with which The Overland Monthly has taken a position in the foremost rank of American miscellaneous magazines has been a matier of general astonishment here at the East, where the literary culture of the Pacific States has been much under- ated. It is hardly less surprising now to find that a large proportion of the best articles in the magazine are written

Whig Almanac containing Annual Riestion Returns by States and Counties, lists of Presidents, Cabinets, Judges of the Supreme Court Foreigo Ministers, Governors of Sistes, &c., with Summaries of Acts of Congress, and other Political Sistiacias. The following introduction to the volumes, by Mr. Greeiey, more fully explains their acope:

"In the Pall of 1831—years before the establishment of The Trinung—the October Elections having developed a popular uprising against the Jackson-Van Buren dynasty which had for ten years seemed invincible—I was moved to issue a Poutrica. Remarker for 1831 intended mainly to embody the election Returns of that year, and compare them with these of some preceding poor. The reception of that little annual was such as to justify its reproduction for each affecting year—that of 1847 only accepted—until the Issue for 1850 will complete a series of thirty annual Registers of Election Returns, with other useful political and statistical matter, afforcing for a first to each reader, though the preparation of each issue now involves a total cost of more than 61,000. This annual has been known successively as The Follicions' Register, Whig Almonica, and Tribune aftenness, under which last name it has been insued for exercity gaves post the earlier issues having been consumed in the fire which destroyed The Third Insulant has for some years past been impossible to procure full sets of the work at any rate, and the imperfectuets from time to time threw a open the market have commanded fabridous prices.

This Book is a collection of the series of articles originally published in The New-York Ledger, bearing as now the title "Resollections of a Busy Life," revised, and in part rewritten by the author, and enriched by the addition of much original matter. It is believed that these autobiographical reminiscences will be not only entertaining and attractive but of permanent value to all students of the times we live in; forming, as they do, a record of the inner life and inspiration of one who has actively shared in the many strange intellectual and political phases through which America has gone during the past thirty years of intense vitality Mr. Greeley bluself gives the best indication of their nature, when b eage: " I shall never write anything class into which I shall put so much

NEW CHRISTMAS BOOK, IN FAIRYLAND: PICTURES FROM THE ELF WORLD. BY RICHARD DOYLE. Wish a Poem by W. ALLINGHAM. Folio, with Stateen Plates containing Thirty-siz Besigns printed in Colors, price $15, cloth, gill edges.

"This, the first gift-book of the season, is a sight to gladden the bearts not only of the youthful public, but of all who love to believe the antique fables and the feiry toys of which Shakespeare and Drayton delighted to trest. For that wiser race who hold the imagination to be a precious gift to be cared for and nourished. 'Pairyland' is a book of all others for a Christmas present."- | Notes and Queries.

"We see the bright little world of fays and elves in pretty nearly all its aspects. The fairy royalty and aristocracy, and the fairy commonanty, are alike represented. Fairy love-making, fairy revelry, fairy mischief, fairy hunting, fairies dressing, and fairies feasting, fairies flying through the air, robbing birds' nests, teasing birds, chasing butterflies swarming through the woodlands, fluttering about the waters, clinging to flowers, leaves and tendrils—baby fairies and grown-up fairies—all these are pictured with a wonderful richness of fancy and variety of in-vention. Everything is in admirable keeping. Mr. Allingham's dainty little poem has all the bright and ready fancy of which he is a master."— D. APPLETON & Co., Publishers.
